

Funding the Global Leaders of Tomorrow

Fellowship funding in support of young Americans making a difference in local communities abroad

The InterExchange Foundation Christianson Fellowship awards $2,500–$15,000 to young Americans looking to apply their skills and passions toward helping communities abroad thrive, while they increase their awareness and appreciation of local culture.

Fellows have identified a project or an organization focused on an issue they care about and are committed to spending a minimum of six months abroad.

What we look for in our fellows

The fellow is motivated and passionate about doing good and establishes clear, measurable goals for their time abroad that align with their future plans. They bring specifically-needed skills to the host community and are excited to serve as an ambassador for InterExchange and the U.S. while learning about the host culture.

What we look for in service projects

- The project is supported by and clearly benefits the host community.
- The service project is not a requirement for university credit.
- The benefits of the project continue after the fellow's departure.
- The project location is safe and the project duration is feasible.

Requirements

- 18–28 years old at the project start date
- U.S. citizen or permanent resident
- Willing to travel abroad for at least 6 months

Application

Deadlines: March 15, July 15, and October 15

Learn more about the
Christianson Fellowship
and apply here!

Funding the Global Leaders of Tomorrow

Fellowship funding in support of young Americans making a difference in local communities abroad

The InterExchange Foundation Christianson Fellowship awards $2,500–$15,000 to young Americans looking to apply their skills and passions toward helping communities abroad thrive, while they increase their awareness and appreciation of local culture.

Fellows have identified a project or an organization focused on an issue they care about and are committed to spending a minimum of six months abroad.

What we look for in our fellows

The fellow is motivated and passionate about doing good and establishes clear, measurable goals for their time abroad that align with their future plans. They bring specifically-needed skills to the host community and are excited to serve as an ambassador for InterExchange and the U.S. while learning about the host culture.

What we look for in service projects

- The project is supported by and clearly benefits the host community.
- The service project is not a requirement for university credit.
- The benefits of the project continue after the fellow's departure.
- The project location is safe and the project duration is feasible.

✔ Requirements

- 18–28 years old at the project start date
- U.S. citizen or permanent resident
- Willing to travel abroad for at least 6 months

✔ Application

Deadlines: March 15, July 15, and October 15

Contact us at foundation@interexchange.org

Learn more about the
Christianson Fellowship
and apply here!

